Men Appointed to Set Value On J. T. Koen Building Next Week.

MANNINGTON, July 29.—Appraisers were appointed yesterday for the purpose of setting a value upon the J. T. Koen building between the Clarksburg street and Friesburg bridges here, and will meet Monday morning in Mannington to agree on the value. Condemnation of this building was ordered several days ago by the city.

Thirteen men were appointed to the court and both defendant and plaintiff struck off four names leaving five men to do the work. They are J. M. Broomfield, John P. Phillips, O. S. McKinney and E. C. Jones, business men of Fairmont, and John J. Haggerty, a Farmington merchant.

Previous to the condemnation of this building Mr. Koen was asked to set a price upon the property. He asked $35,000. The city commissioners offered him $11,000, which Mr. Koen refused. It is understood that the value set upon the property by the five men appointed will be the final price.

When the two new bridges are built replacing the old structures standing now, this building, one of the oldest in Mannington, will have to be removed in order to make sufficient room for the concrete work. There has been some talk of erecting a new city building where the old Koen structure now stands, but nothing definite has been done toward that yet.

Letter to the Editor

MANNINGTON, W. Va., July 28.—There is an attempt being made to displace I. A. Barnes as county superintendent of schools. Of course this is a free county and all that, but the people should see to it that the incumbent should be retained for these reasons:

First, because of his scholarship which has not been equaled by any who have held this office previously. This can be proved if necessary.

Second, because of his high character which has been equaled by few and surpassed by none of his predecessors in office.

Third, because of his industry which has not been equaled by any who have held this office in the past, witness the number of educational meetings which he has held and the short time which he spends in the pivot chair which has been so ably and persistently filled by some of his immediate predecessors.

He has done great work in the short time he has held this important position and he will do much greater work in the future if permitted to do so.

I. A. Barnes is a genial gentleman who is possessed of a winning personality and inspires both the teacher and pupil with that confidence so necessary to the accomplishment of good work in the school room.

He is a friend to the old teacher, if worthy and to the young teacher, if promising. Now, teachers, what more can you ask if you are fair-minded I can answer for you. Nothing.

So let all good people go to the polls on August 1, and work and vote for Mr. Barnes and you will not regret it.

Respectfully,
"CITIZEN"

Edgemont Sub-Deb in Crown Prince Contest

Portrait by Tom Culverwell.
MISS HUMA NEARLY.

"I think the Prince is too 'tweety' for words!"

This is Huma Nearly's candid opinion about the Prince of Wales. She is the first sub-deb entry in the great prize contest. She is the daughter of the Edgemont Nearslys and her sister, Vera Nearly, married the Duke of Mickleton.

"Of course, I have lots and lots of crushes," she continued. "Why, the boys just don't give me a minute to think. They're at the door all the time. Mamma won't answer the bell any more when I'm home. They're wearing out all the parlor furniture. Father says he's going to charge them part of the rent of the house or put up No 'Parking' signs, but, of course, he's only fooling."

"But I think a prince would be too dear for words. Judging from his picture you had in the paper, really I think he'd be just delicious! I'm sure he would like me. He'd probably get along well with the rest of the boys, too, and we could all have some perfectly lovely parties together."

"As for marrying him, I really haven't made up my mind yet. While there are so many nice boys, it seems a pity to concentrate, don't you think? As father says, 'marriage may be a great institution, but who wants to be confined in an institution?'"

The Epworth League service at 10 in the evening will be led by Miss Edith Charlton. An effort will be made to make everyone who attends these services feel welcome.

Good fellows, but—Oh, you know! They simply weren't in the same class as the Mannington Athletics.

McCartney got fourteen strikeouts, and the team scored a total of 19 runs against the South Side pitiful run. The Mannington boys got 12 hits, too.

That's the way it would have been Deacon Slappe remarked this morning, only—only the game was not played.

Somebody yelled rain and the hull doggone bunch beat it for shelter.

Wonder what Manager Port thinks of this here Sunday baseball law enforcement business?

But he hopes there won't be a "league of sheriffs."

According to the Deacon Big Chief Masters' vacation will be over as soon as the sheriff releases that bunch of deputies.

That's pretty hard to understand but perhaps the Deacon knows.

What's a parking regulation for, anyhow?

Every time Harold steps along the street Paul turns green with envy. For that matter, so does Bob.

STRIKE FACTOR FELT IN MARKET

Further Covering of Short Contracts Noted Today at Opening.

NEW YORK, July 29.—Mixed conditions ruled in today's stock market. Opening prices were mainly higher under the impetus of a renewed demand for rails and some of the favorite industrials, where grains ran from 1 to 2 1/2 points. Oils, especially Mexican Petroleum were strong with the recent buying of leading equipment classes. Chemicals and rubbers moved to higher ground. Motors were the uncertain features. Studebaker reacting sharply from its early rise of almost 2 points. Atlantic Gulf also showed recent selling pressure. The closing was firm. Sales approximated 300,000 shares.

NEW YORK, July 29.—Further coverings of short contracts, attributed to the strike situation was noted at the opening of today's stock market, gains ranging from liberal fractions to almost two points in the early trading. Rails dominated the advance under the leadership of Union Pacific which rose 1 7/8 points. Crucible led the steels at a gain of 1 point. Studebaker opened strong but soon cancelled most of its gains. Minor reasons were given by Baltimore & Ohio, Cuba cane and American car, a further collapse in Germany marks to 15 1/2 cents a hundred. The lowest price yet recorded, indicated the increased concern here regarding financial conditions in Germany.

CONVENTION DATES ANNOUNCED TODAY

MANNINGTON, July 29.—Harry F. Furbee, secretary of the Marion County Sunday School Association, announced this morning the dates for the county and district Sunday school conventions to be held in Marion County this year.

Mr. Barbe said today that plans are being made for a number of good speakers, and the conventions will be attended by a large number of representatives from the various schools. The county convention, to be held at the Palatine Baptist Church October 5 and 6 will close a great year in Sunday school work, it is declared. The conventions in order of their dates are as follows: Lincoln District, at Downs M. E. Church, August 13; Mannington District, at Metz M. E. Church, August 17; Union District, at Walnut Grove, August 20; Fairmont District, at Monumental M. E. Church, August 24; Fayette District, at Baxter M. E. Church, August 27; Grant District, at Eldora M. P. Church, September 3; Winfield District, at Mt. Zion Church, September 17. The county convention will be held at the Palatine Baptist Church in Fairmont October 5 and 6.

CORNWELL ENDS NEWSPAPER WORK

Bids Farewell to His Readers in Current Issue of Romney Paper.

Former Governor John J. Cornwell who recently announced that he had accepted the position as chief counsel for the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Co., says farewell to the readers of his weekly newspaper, the Hampshire Review, in the current issue of that paper after thirty-two years' service as editor.

In reply to some criticism of his friends, Mr. Cornwell says that he accepted the position as B. & O. counsel because it was difficult for him to be content with comparative inactivity after four years spent in the midst of things as governor of West Virginia. He also expressed a high regard for Daniel Willard, president of the company, and declared he was anxious to be associated with him and his staff. Mr. Cornwell will continue to live in Romney, he says, although much of his time will of necessity be spent in Baltimore.

This "personal statement," which appears at the head of the editorial column of the Review this week, follows:

"Again it seems proper to make a personal statement to Review readers, not a few of whom have been my friends and have read these columns for nearly a third of a century.

"Resuming the writing of editorials on my return from Charleston it was with the expectation that that work would continue the remainder of my days. However, circumstances have decreed otherwise and again I am handing the paper over to others, temporarily or permanently as the future may determine.

"For nearly a score of years before going to Charleston, I was local attorney for the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, often doing special legal work for the company. Upon retiring from office I became a director in the company. A few months ago Mr. Hugh L. Bond, its general counsel, died. The position was tendered to me and, after due consideration, has been accepted. This necessitates spending almost all of my time in Baltimore or elsewhere than in Romney, beginning this week.

"However, Romney will continue to be my home. I shall hope to spend the week-ends here, or most of them, during the summer and fall. My property interests will be retained, as will my citizenship and residence here. My interest in the state, county and town, as well as in their people to whom I owe so much, will remain always. But I will be too busy to write editorials for the Review. Besides, I want to continue the paper of the people of Hampshire county, unbiased and without reflecting the views of one wholly engrossed with railroad problems. So, the management of the paper will continue with Mr. Dinkle, while it will be edited by him and Miss Margaret I. Keller without any regret on my part.

straint or suggestions by me. That women are now citizens in fact as well as in theory, equal in political status, with men, makes for them a larger place in civic, social and political life and should increase their interest in the paper through which they can give expression to their opinions and ideas. It is with that thought, partly, that hereafter the Review will have a woman as one of its editors. I will retain the controlling ownership, but will hope that the paper may be continued strictly in the interest of the people of the county. May I hope that you will help those problems; it is hard to write anything that may appear in it written by me will bear my signature except that I shall hope to continue at intervals at least the column of observations known to you as 'Knock About Notes.'

"And now a word of explanation to those near friends, who will, a few at least, regret I have taken this step. It is not prompted by hope of greater monetary reward. The fact is that after grappling for four years with big and interesting problems, it is hard to content myself with the smaller and less interesting things of the small town. Then the associations appeal to me. I have never known finer men than Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Co., and those whom he has gathered around him in the management of the property—his staff. I believe I can work with them, having confidence in them and I could not resist the invitation to become a member of the staff.
